

How To Draw Boats, Trains & Planes

by Michael LaPlaca

The book was about how to draw trains, boats, and planes. The book also gives information on how to draw. I like the book because it helps me draw, and I like to draw. It's a picture and non-fiction book. The illustrations in the book are amazing. I liked how it showed me how to draw step-by-step. It helped me to become a better drawer, especially with the wings on a B-747. The book would be great for people that like drawing.

Miracle Wimp

by Erik Craft

This is about a kid who is trying to fit in at school. He can't because his last name is Mayo so everyone calls him "Miracle Wimp." Who wants to be friends with a kid whose last name is Mayo? Miracle Wimp is moving and he is going to a new school and this could change his status. Will this new school give him popularity? He hopes that the new beginning can change his life and he can get the dream that he always wished. Will he become popular or will it be another disappointment? Readers who like funny books will really like this book.

I.Q.

by Roland Smith

This book series is about a boy named Quest who helps to take down a Ghost Cell (which is a group of terrorists who are untraceable like a ghost). My favorite part is when the bad guys took an explosion to the face. I liked it because it was unexpected. Quest, Angela, Boone, are main characters of the I.Q. book series. They are all part of the same team and Boone is the catalyst that tells Quest about the terrorists. It's a great mystery.

Pictures Of Hollis Woods

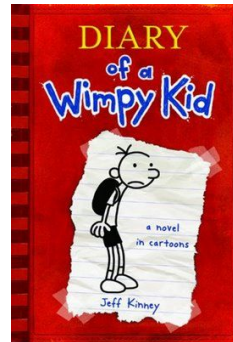

by Patricia Reilly Giff

The book is about a girl named Hollis, who is a foster child. Hollis doesn't trust people. She keeps changing families because she can't seem to trust. My favorite part of the story is when Hollis takes Josie, a foster mother who she really loves to the winter home on Christmas Eve. The person who would like this book is someone who likes family stories about surviving together. The way the story is written makes you feel as if you're actually looking right through Hollis' eyes. It's a great book.

Diary of a Wimpy Kid

by Jeff Kinney

This book had a lot of funny drawings that makes kids laugh. In the book there was cheese on the pavement and someone touched it. When the kid touched it everyone was grossed out! If you were touched, you would get the "Cheese Touch." This was my favorite part of the book because it made me laugh. The main characters are Greg, Rodrick, and Rowley. Rodrick makes fun of Greg and teaches him how to live the high school life. Rowley is Greg's best friend and he is kind of a nerd. The drawings in the book helped me understand what is happening. The book is good because it made me laugh. People who like to laugh would like to read this book.

Rain Reign

by Ann M. Martin

The main character, Rose Howard, is struggling in the story. One stormy night, her father brings home a dog he found in the rain. Rose gets over-joyed by the fact that she now gets her very own dog. Rain gets her name because she was found in the rain. Rose really loves homonyms and prime numbers. Towards the end of the book Rain runs away and Rose has to find her before it's too late. This is a really emotional book so if you don't like crying don't read it... because at the end, I know I cried. I know that I like emotional books, so if you do too, you should read this book.
